The Shipbuilder

Norwell High School
Norwell, Massachusetts

Foreword

The Class of 1965 has chosen the North River as the theme for their Shipbuilder. From the time we look into the River, we believe this to be an appropriate choice. The North River weaves a snake-like pattern between Norwell and Marshfield, slowly meandering at one time, tempestuously rushing at another. In a similar manner, we have progressed through our four years at Norwell High School. We have experienced the serene joy of pleasure and we have ridden the rounds of hard work. Although we have drifted apart at times, we now find a new unity and a new spirit. We await with anticipation whatever lies ahead in the next bend of the River.

Dedication

To Mr. Felix J. Dixon more affectionately known as "Mr. Dix", the Class of 1965 dedicates this Shipbuilder. With your help the Seniors are ready to climb the mast and hoist the mainsail as the Class sets sail into a turbulent Sea.

Mr. Felix J. Dixon

Frederick A. Small

Superintendent of Schools

A class in high school is like a ship voyaging through a necessary yet sometimes stormy sea of education. This voyage is often complicated by the fact that the sea is constantly changing, altering its yesterday face. The ship, therefore, needs a guide who can capably chart a course through such uncanny waters. The class of 1965 recognized you, Mr. Small, as our able navigator. Because of your guidance, we feel better qualified to chart our own courses upon leaving the harbor of our high school.

We, the class of 1965, boarded our ship as inexperienced, undecided boys and girls. It was a new ship with a new skipper, and we were diffident; but he competently steered our vessel. When storms occurred, Mr. Jackman, as our helmsman, eased the blows and avoided the precarious reefs. Thus, we gained knowledge with each successive experience. Having sailed the first ship of education under an able helpful leader, we Seniors have now arrived at the end of this river voyage disembarking from our craft as determined experienced young men and women prepared for the challenging sea.

Curriculum

A black and white photograph of a sailboat on the water. The boat is a ketch-style vessel with two masts, sailing on a choppy sea. The title 'Curriculum' is written in a white, cursive font at the top center of the page.

Captivated by the sea's vast beauty and engrossed in the practical knowledge of the waters, each sailor gains more experience with every voyage. The fundamental skills which a crewman of Norwell High School has acquired through all his school years prepare him for the greatest voyage of all.

1963 brought a pleasant surprise: the Norwell Teachers' Club presented a "Gay Nineties" special in order to raise scholarship money.

Play Page

The Cinderella Complex was the Drama Club's first endeavor at a 3 act play for a public evening performance. Presented in 1963, the play, directed by Mrs. John Reardon, was a success. Encouraged by the popularity of the performance, the club undertook The Curious Savage in the following year and in November of 1964 The Doctor in Spite of Himself. The latest play, written by Molière, proved that a 17th century play can humorously entertain a modern audience.

Betty Crocker Homemaker Award

Across the country each year, the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Test is given to all senior girls. The test, which includes a variety of questions on food, clothing, and home management, and an essay, is sent to the official board for judging. From each school, the test with the highest score is entered into the statewide contest. In Massachusetts, Christine Lowe, Norwell's Homemaker of Tomorrow, ranks in the top ten.

Student Exchange Day

The Student Exchange Program, initiated by Mrs. Tammi, sponsors the exchange of ideas on activities and curriculum among various schools in the surrounding area. Exchange students of the 1964-65 program, Diana Lindsay, Dorna Benzaquin, Richard Merrifield, Mary Splaine, and Linda Maxwell, will visit other schools that will, in turn, send students to N.H.S.

Student Government Day

In the fall, the student body elects one member of the Student Council to attend and participate in Student Government Day. For one day in April, Norwell's Representative takes part in the functions of the State House along with other students from Massachusetts schools.

The program offers an opportunity to learn about the intricate workings of government as well as the role of an active citizen.

Mrs. Clifford Joyce

We dedicate this page to Mrs. Clifford Joyce, who for these past years has guided Latin classes through ancient Rome and modern Europe. Whether discussing the irregular conjugation of verbs or the often misplaced "hunc" and "id", Mrs. Joyce has explained, repeated, corrected, and explained again. Thank you Mrs. Joyce. Although we might not remember the teachings of Cicero or all the declensions, we shall always remember you, our teacher and friend.

Underclassmen

No ship can successfully sail without the help of an able crew. The Junior, Sophomore, and Freshmen "seamen first class" of Norwell High School are competent. Their dexterity on deck is only surpassed by their ability to dance and sing a tricky sailor's hornpipe. Our seamen show the versatility which will make a trim ship.

Through the Years

Sports

During the course of a voyage there are bound to be times of tedious calm. So too, a school year would prove wearisome if it offered only opportunities for mental achievement. Recognizing the shortcomings of such a system, Norwell High responds by offering its students the benefit of outdoor and indoor physical recreation. Athletic functions encourage recognition of athletic skills, excite a healthy school spirit, and keep participants in physical "shipshape."

Football

The '65 Shipbuilder staff dedicates these pages to Norwell's Football Squad, which has, in its infant stages, shown tremendous potential—a potential which places football decidedly as the top future fall sport. Under Coaches Gardener and Mandile, the boys have continued last year's program with strenuous calisthenics, (vocal exercise included),

Reach for the Stars

Sideline strategy

... and as they close in for the kill ...

the "set-up", Cross-buck, 47 reverse, and the T-formations.

The list of drills and plays learned and applied by team members grew as the season wore on. Likewise, as the season wore on, there developed a threat to football's existence. A question arose as to whether or not football could be financially supported in the athletic budget. The coaches, the team, and the students rallied to save football. With that obstacle successfully overcome, Coaches Gardener and Mandile and the newly-formed CLIPPER Squad have an expanded program in their horizon which might include scrimmages with other schools' varsity squads. At any rate, the team's standing record

1964-1965

Fullback Flair
Flip of the coin

of three scrimmages won out of four played deserves hearty and enthusiastic applause. Indeed, the Yearbook staff most warmly congratulates every team member, every football supporter, and last but not least, Coaches Mr. Robert Gardener and Mr. Richard Mandile, for a job well done.

Mark is under again?

Wrestling

If one should wander near the gymnasium after school on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, one might see Mr. Chandler flying through the air or hear a fascinating medley of grunts and groans. One should not, however, be dismayed. The Wrestling Club is in session.

Under the direction of Mr. Chandler, the boys receive instruction in the various holds in wrestling. Although the members have not entered any competition, and there are no definite plans for such, the club offers activity for all those interested in the sport. The boys did, however, take a field trip this year to watch the wrestling match between MIT and Springfield College.

Club

Pep Club

The Pep Club is an organization formed by a number of high school students. In order to qualify for the club, a student must meet certain requirements and write an application, stating his reasons for wanting to join. The club learns the various cheers and school songs and increases the volume of the voices of the cheerleaders. The purpose of the club is to provide students with school spirit and encourage the team to play to its best ability.

National Athletic Scholarship Award

The National Athletic Scholarship Society of Secondary Schools recognizes through membership those boys who have exemplified the highest type of citizenship and sportsmanship. To be eligible for membership in this society, a boy must have earned a varsity athletic letter and have achieved an average in his school work for three consecutive semesters equal to or higher than the general average of the school. Recognition is through a pin and a certificate.

History of the North River

Although there is no written record, the North River probably received its name from the explorers who, travelling north from Plymouth, discovered two rivers. The southern one was called the South River and the northern, the North River. Since the two rivers were a short distance from the coast, one from the South and one from the North, they were so named. Before 1625, the savages except the Wampanoag Indians called the North River. In that year the Bayards, the first white people to charter and travel the river, styled it what is now Pembroke.

In the early Colonial days the name "North River" was familiar to townspeople all the way from Nantucket, New Bedford, and Barnstable, to Boston and the South Shore. Prior to 1800, the boats built on the North River were world renowned. To be specific, there are records of over 1025 vessels built in these local shipyards. In fact, the American flag was first carried throughout the world on North River-built boats.

The North River, flowing through five towns, is the most unspoiled outdoors recreation area on the South Shore. There are no industrial sites on the unchanged salt marshlands and the wooded shorelines. Due to its beauty, it is one of the most popular spots for a few days' vacation on its banks.

The year 1965 is the fourth anniversary of the new Norwell High School, and likewise the Class of 1965 is the first to have completed four full years in the new school.

Congratulations to BOTH!

Even with an able captain, a willing crew, and a sturdy ship, a vessel's log cannot be published without financial backing. Those who sponsor this adventure story contribute to the enthusiasm of the voyage. Those who give advertisements make the journey possible. We thank these people now that the ship has reached its destination.
